

Panel 2: 'Evocation or no evocation? That is the case law'

Denitza Stoyanova, EUIPO Boards of Appeal, ES

Obtained Masters in law from the University of Sofia and LL.M. from the University of Hamburg.

Admitted to the Sofia bar in 2003, worked in private practice before joining EUIPO in 2013.

Worked for almost 9 years in EUIPO's Operations Department as a decision taker in relative grounds disputes (oppositions and cancellations), including cases dealing with Geographical Indications.

Currently works in the Litigation Service of EUIPO, which is mainly responsible for defending decisions of EUIPO's Board of Appeal before the General Court and the Court of Justice of the EU in Luxembourg.

Olivier Vrins, Altius, BE

Olivier Vrins is a partner in the Intellectual Property practice group at Brussels-based law firm ALTIUS. He mainly deals with trademark, geographical indication, design and copyright law. He has also gained expertise in other IP-related topics, such as the protection of personality rights of public figures, including sportsmen and artists. He deals with litigation before the national, Benelux and EU courts, the Benelux IP Office and EUIPO as well as the European Commission. Olivier is a member of the Geographical Indications Committee and Legal Advisor of ECTA. He is also a member of the International Trade Mark Association (INTA); the International Wine Law Association (AIDV); the Benelux Trade Mark and Design Association (BMM); the editorial board of the BMM Bulletin (a Benelux review on trademark & design law); and the Belgian Council for Intellectual Property, and advisory body to the Belgian Federal Government. Olivier has been retained by WIPO as an international expert in workshops on IP enforcement.